No accident

Wilmington Cruiser 33 sustained moderate damage in a chase, ended when Officer Joe Waterhouse drove the cruiser head-on into a car under pursuit.

Fugitive nabbed after four-town chase

Officer Joseph Waterhouse used his police cruiser to ram a car under pursuit Monday night, saving three passers-by from possible injury.

The calculated collision ended a spectacular four-town chase and resulted in the arrest of an escapee from the Billerica House of Correction.

The pursuit began in Burlington and proceeded through Pinehurst, down Cook Street to Hopkins Street in Wilmington. Waterhouse picked up the chase at the junction of Route 129 and Main Street, where the fugitive turned left and headed for Tewksbury.

Waterhouse had to turn around and pursue the car in heavy traffic. Proceeding down the middle of the road, the car forced other vehicles off the road and ran red lights at Grove Avenue and again at Shawheen Street in Tewksbury, where a head-on collision was narrowly averted.

Near the Tewksbury Airport, the car passed three other cars on the right. Coming back onto the pavement, the car went out of control, striking another car. It then proceeded into a parking lot across the street.

The pursuing cruisers, meanwhile, had passed the three cars on the left, and followed the fugitive into the parking lot.

In the lot, the Burlington cruiser hit the car in the rear, but the car kept on going. The driver then headed for the street, but in his path were three pedestrians.

Waterhouse, seeing the situation, immediately drove his cruiser head-on into the fugitive vehicle. End of chase.

The operator, a resident of Cambridge, was taken into custody and locked up at Tewksbury. He sustained a facial cut in the collision.

He was charged with speeding, endangering, failure to stop for a red light, and failure to stop for a police officer.

The cruiser had to be towed from the scene. Damaged were the fender, hood, grille and radiator. The cruiser was a new Matador put into service less than two months ago.

Sweeney reaches Racquet finals

Wilmington's Robert Sweeney kept up the hot pace on the summer's tennis courts as he reached the finals of the Waltham Racquet Club Open Junior Tournament this past week.

Bob lost the final match in three sets. He has won nine trophies this past year in the 12 and under tournaments throughout New England.

Sweeney has another year of eligibility in the 12 and under age group and hopes to qualify for the NELTA national tournaments next year.

Miceli elected state rep

The long political summer of 1977 is over. James R. Miceli has been elected as the new representative for the 36th Middlesex district.

The turnout at the polls was quite strong, 3808 or with 42.1 percent of the registered voters voting. Of those, 62.4 percent, or 2375 voted for Miceli. He picked up another 250 votes at the Billerica polls.

Robert Cain, running on stickers 1319 votes in Wilmington and another 103 in Billerica.

The Miceli victory was stronger than his winning the primary on August 2. In Wilmington, Cain picked up six votes over his August 2 tally. Miceli added 802 to his previous tally.

After the primary, Cain announced that he was still a candidate, running on stickers. Miceli's was the only name listed on the ballot Tuesday. Strangely, six of the votes Miceli received were write-in votes.

Both Miceli and Cain ran as Democrats, Miceli as the Democratic nominee.

One other candidate Bernard Mahoney, received three write-in votes. There were 110 blanks.

The special election was held to select a person to fill the unexpired term of the late Rep. Fred F. Cain. Cain was a member of the General Court for more than 12 years. He died in May.

The election is the last that will be held for the 36th Middlesex district as it now exists. In 1978, a redistricting will take effect, and most of Wilmington will be grouped with all of Tewksbury. Precinct 3 of Wilmington will be grouped with Reading.

Busby homer cracks Beatties

Jim Busby hammered Jack Foster's first pitch over the right centerfield fence to lead off the seventh inning as North Wilmington Shell advanced in Tewksbury-Wilmington Tourney action with an 8-7 win over Beatties.

The blast climaxed a banner night for the Wilmington squads at the Town Park as last night's action also saw Sherwood Oil trouncing Tewksbury champion Airport Restaurant 12-4. Action in the first annual double elimination tournament continues tonight (August 31) with a pair of games at Tewksbury's Livingston Street Park. Sherwood battles Beatties in the 6:30 opener with Shell taking on the winner of that game in the nightcap at 8 p.m.

In Monday night's first games Beatties belted Sherwood 12-4 and Shell and pitcher Rusty Heubner held on for a wild 17-16 win over Airport. Both of those games were played at Livingston Street.

Tourney highlights:
Tuesday, August 30-Sherwood 12, Airport 4....The Wilmington champs pounded out 10 hits as Tony Butler and Paul O'Donnell paced the offense with two hits apiece. Dick Elliot was the winning pitcher - allowing nine Airport hits.

North Wilmington Shell 8, Beatties 7....The lead exchanged hands throughout and the winners survived six errors in the field. Busby's homer won the tilt, but he had some help as John Gillis clubbed three hits for four RBIs. Busby had singled and doubled before his game winning shot in the bottom of the seventh inning.

Winning pitcher Rusty Heubner helped the cause with a triple and a single for one RBI. Dick Gearty and Bob Gillis also drove in runs for the winners. Shell out hit Beatties 12-9.

Man arrested in fight with police

Wilmington police arrested a North Wilmington man Thursday night after he became involved in a fight with two officers.

Officer Robert Vassallo said that he had gone to the parking lot at D.F. Munroe Co. shortly before 11:30 p.m. and asked the drivers of two cars to leave. He said that the man, a passenger in one of the cars, got out and refused to leave.

Vassallo then told him to get into the cruiser, without having arrested him. But the man refused, and a fight broke out.

Vassallo and Robert Beals, a special officer, managed to subdue the man, but not before several blows and kicks were inflicted. Beals sprayed mace, Vassallo said, hitting not only the subject, but also his fellow officer.

The man was arrested, and charged with two counts of assault and battery on a police officer with a dangerous weapon.

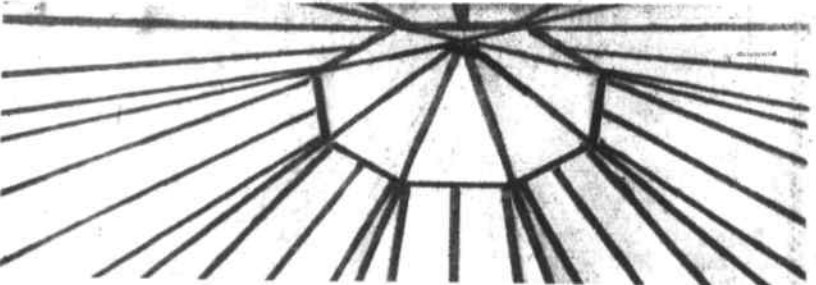

Both officers received treatment for injuries received in the scuffle.

Some played

It was chilly on Wilmington Common Thursday night, but the 250 people who turned out for a concert were not disappointed. The gazebo, newly finished, housed a 14-piece band, the Big Band Revival from Burlington. Many people, including the Murphy family of Andover Street, brought blankets.

While some people huddled in their blankets to keep warm, one little girl found the music and the blanket to be very relaxing....

Thank you to all the people who welcomed me into their homes during the campaign. Thank you, too, to all those who voted, supported and worked so hard for me. And a special thanks to Esther Russell and the election workers for all their work. I hope to see you all very soon.

LETTER

Dear Larz:
I wish to compliment the dog officer of Tewksbury when he said we have a "people problem" in Tewksbury. Truer words were never spoken.

For example: A water ban was instigated in May 1977. Since that time any hour of the day, you can ride around, especially in the Pringle Street, Hill St., Ext., Baldwin Street areas, and see people watering their lawns, washing cars, trucks or driveways, and kids playing under hoses.
Another example: There are 21 children on Baldwin Street and yet people living in that area, especially Allen Road, consider the street to be the "Hudson Speedway." This is not only with automobiles, but with motorcycles and unregistered trail bikes.

Another example: Once before the people of our area were accused of poisoning a dog in our area. Yet some of the people who made this unfounded accusation let another dog loose, to run, and gother the neighborhood, not mentioning the other dogs which are a continual nuisance.

Most of these people are highly educated professional people. They are probably great exponents of the ecology and conservation problems, yet they are the greatest offenders of both, plus the health and welfare of the children of this area.

Once again, my compliments to the Tewksbury dog officer who surely knows the truth he has spoken.

Ancient doings near the Tewksbury Airport

The Shawheen River, which flows through Wilmington and Tewksbury, was, in the days before the white man arrived, a place where there were many Indians. The same is true of the Ipswich River, which flows from Wilmington to the sea. Hundreds of campfire sites have been found, alongside or near the two rivers.

There are half a dozen sites along Strongwater Brook in Tewksbury, and there are others along Maple Meadow Brook and Lubbers Brook in Wilmington.

What are found at these sites are "artifacts" - things made by man. A popular term for them is Indian Arrowheads.

Not everything that is found is an arrowhead. There are scrapers, there are chisels, knives, hoes, axes, drills and spear points, to name a few of the artifacts by aboriginal mankind.

And to say they were Indians is not necessarily correct. No one can say what color skin the people who lived here 2000 or more years ago had. No one can certify that they did not have three legs. There are no physical remains, no paintings, no word descriptions.

There were people, yes. They left behind them artifacts, mostly made of stone, but a few made of deer horn. There are a number of collections of these artifacts.

In the Patten Library in Tewksbury is a good collection of artifacts, the so called Indian arrowheads and other stones. Most of these artifacts were found near the Shawheen River. Some were found in North Tewksbury.

Professor Fred Burt of Lowell about 30 years ago put the collection together. It was put together in the light of the knowledge of that time. Today different terms are used.

In that collection are many kinds of points, arrowheads, scrapers, chisels, drills and other stones.

Two of them are small, made of white quartz. One is now called the Squibnocket Point, and the other Wading River Point. At the time that Prof. Burt set up that collection in the Patten Library they had no distinguishing name.

An archeologist from the State of New York, Dr. Ritchie, was the man who named them. He found the Squibnocket Point at a point of land on the south coast of Martha's Vineyard named (of course) Squibnocket. It was in association with ashes from campfires, and radio carbon analysis showed those ashes to date from about 2,000 BC. Dr. Ritchie likewise found the Wading River points near a river of that name in Long Island, and also with ashes from campfires. Those ashes, too, dated at about 2,000 BC.

Thanks to the collection in the Patten Library it can be proven that mankind lived near the Shawheen River 4,000 years ago. The writer, too, has Squibnocket and Wading River points, found on the banks of the Ipswich River, in Wilmington.

But Tewksbury has suddenly become the place in which to search for arrowheads that date much further back - perhaps to 7,000 BC.

The arrowhead for which the search is being made is one similar to arrowheads which were found in Ipswich, Mass., the Bull Brook point.

Unlike the common arrowhead, and there are many varieties to be found, the Bull Brook point is "fluted" - that is the sides were hollowed out.

Fluted arrowheads are a mark of extreme antiquity, and archeologists all over the United States keep their eyes and ears open for anything that will help them locate such artifacts.

In the southwestern states are a number of points which have been found during the past half century. Some are called Folsom Points, some are called Clovis Points. There are others.

The Clovis points were found in a place called Clovis, in New Mexico, on the shores of an ancient and dried up lake. Like his more modern counterparts, the ancient people of the Clovis tradition liked to live beside water.

The points were found to have been used by the Clovis man to kill a mammoth - which some people today would call an ancient elephant. The skeletons of four mammoths were found with Clovis points in them.

The Clovis points were, in fact older than the Folsom Point. They were "fluted," in both instances. The sides were hollowed out to permit the fitting of a shaft, either as an arrow or a spear. This in the same manner as was later found for the Bull Brook points.

For many years it was believed that only in Southwestern United States could these extremely old points be found. Then there were finds in two sites in New England that were found to be ancient - near Ellsworth, Maine and Ipswich, Massachusetts. The Ipswich site was the most exciting.

A Folsom point, showing the method in which it was lashed to a wooden shaft. The reason for having "fluted" (hollowed out) shaft is self-evident.

The Bull Brook site was on an ancient glacial terrace. Radio carbon dating indicated about 7,000 BC - about 9,000 years ago - and not too long after the last of the glaciers had presumably retreated from New England.

Clovis type points were found on that glacial terrace, as were other instruments used by aboriginal man - scrapers, flake knives, graters and drills. Naturally, there were many people who were interested. Massachusetts has many universities.

There are more than a few people who are archeologists.

Are there more places in Massachusetts in which one might find "fluted" points? Are there other traces of aboriginal man, from about 9,000 years ago?

A law was passed in that an archeologist must first certify a site, with regard to ancient artifacts, before work could begin, in all instances where federal funds were involved. The law is so written that work on any excavation can be stopped, if necessary, if it is believed that some aboriginal points exist at the site. The work will stop until a better determination is made.

Whitman & Howard is the firm that is doing the engineering for the Tewksbury sewer, which may yet be constructed from the Merrimack River to the Wilmington line. It was the firm which prepared the plans for the Wilmington sewer for which construction has now started to North Wilmington.

Associated with Whitman & Howard is Dr. Charlotte Thomson. She is an archeological consultant. She certified that the proposed route in Wilmington was without archeological interest. One of the persons she consulted for that determination was the publisher of the Town Crier.

Now Dr. Thomson is certifying the Tewksbury route. There are a number of streams which the proposed sewer line crosses - one of them being Strongwater Brook, near East Street.

She has examined a number of sites, but the one that is interesting is near Livingston Street, near the Tewksbury Airport. There she has found, she says, some "archaic" points dating back to 5,000 BC, and some felsite chips.

Dr. Thomson is not saying that she has found fluted points, but she feels the site is of archeological interest. That means perhaps she has discovered something.

That Livingston Street site will perhaps be of interest in the near future, when she makes more explorations.

One of the joys of the life of an archeologist is to participate in an exploration of a place that has not been dug over by amateurs. Professor Burt had such an experience, about 30 years ago in Southeastern Massachusetts.

If there are more than the first indication, for points, that place could be of importance. More explorations are possible. Professor Burt might be having another experience, similar to that of 30 years ago.

Labor Day is Telethon time

Northeast Fire Fighters Against Muscular Dystrophy have planned a gala weekend of activities in conjunction with the Jerry Lewis Telethon. Last year was the Fire Fighters' first effort at holding the telethon, and they raised $30,000, an amount that even surprised the fire fighters themselves. This year, of course, they would like to top that amount. The money is used for research and treatment of muscular dystrophy.

The events will center at the Oakdale Mall, and will tie in with telecasts on Channel 5. Local broadcasts are scheduled at 12:15 p.m. and 1:15 p.m. on Monday. The telethon will be on Channel 5 from 8 p.m. Sunday until 6:30 p.m. Monday. The national telethon is broadcast from Las Vegas, with 15-minute local cut-aways.

A telephone pledge center will be set up at the Oakdale Mall, to run in conjunction with the national telethon. The pledge number is 657-5480. The weekend begins on Saturday evening with a dance at the Elks Hall at 8 p.m. P.J. and Company will be playing. Admission is $2.

Sunday, the beginning of the telethon, will be highlighted by a rock concert at the Oakdale Mall. The Horizon Band will be playing from 3 to 5 p.m. and the Ryde Band from 5 to 8 p.m.

Monday, Labor Day will start off with a gigantic parade starting at 9 a.m. from Wilmington Plaza, marching up Main St. to the Oakdale Mall in Tewksbury. The parade will consist of marching bands, fire trucks old and new, clowns and Sesame Street characters, Shriners units, Compass Riders Motorcycle Club of Billerica, State Police, Hot Rod Association, Chelmsford CB's float and many more units.

Directly following the parade, there will be a funday for all at the Oakdale Mall. There will be games, antique fire engine rides, pony and motorcycle rides. The Chelmsford Breakers will be hosting a huge C.B. coffee break. A huge auction will be beginning at 12:00 o'clock. Demonstrations by the State Police Drill Team, Dog Team and Horse Team will be going on throughout the day.

The W.C.A.P. mobile studio will be broadcasting from dawn till dusk.

Ken Hodge from the N.Y. Rangers Hockey Team will be present. Ken is Mass. Chairman for M.D.

The drawing for the 1977 Ford Pinto donated by Wilmington Ford will be held at 4:00 p.m.

Among the donations received for the auction are a 30-minute seacoast plane ride from Tew-Mac, 500 gallons of oil from Sherwood Oil, a case of sneakers from Converse Rubber, and two full year memberships in the For Women Only health spa.

One very popular feature of the weekend is a dunk tank, which is about four feet deep and full of water. A seat above the tank serves as a perch for the subject, who, in many cases, will be various politicians and other notables from the area.

All that is needed to send the dunkee into the tank is for a person to hit the target with a ball. The fee for throwing that ball, of course, goes to Muscular Dystrophy research.

Some of the volunteers for the dunk tank are Tewksbury Selectmen Dick Morris, John Sughrue, Bill Hallissey and Joe McNeil, Finance Committee members Al Daley and L. Kelley.

Board of Health, Mike Daley, C. Coldwell, J. Lennox, B. McMenimen, Teen Workshop Norm DeMaris, School Committee, J. McDermott, J. Downing, D. Hart, Planning Board G. Donavan, Fire Dept. Capt. Cuneo, Lieut's Flynn, Hancock, Fowler, Privates Driscoll, Kearns, Marshall Reed, Wilmington Fire Dept. Lt. Sil Blonigan, Lt. Bill Nee, John Brown, Bill Lopez, Police Sgt. Bernie Nally, and two state troopers unnamed at this time.

Two young ladies have volunteered, Janice Kennedy and Linda Roy of the Tewksbury Jaycees. R. Roy of the Tewksbury Jaycees, Fred Miller, Wilmington Sons of Italy, Fred Bachler No. Reading Selectman.

New doors

New doors were installed on the Congregational Church last week by a crew of carpenters working for Arthur Smith. Phil Gagnon is shown applying the first coat of paint to one of the doors.

L.W.V. marks suffrage anniversary

Friday, August 26, marks the 57th anniversary of women's suffrage.

Fifty-eight years ago the League of Women Voters of the United States was born out of a commitment to help secure the right to vote for women. Since then the League, a non-partisan organization, has worked toward promoting political responsibility through informed and active participation of all citizens in government.

On this anniversary the League of Women Voters of Wilmington will join her sister Leagues across the country in another quest for women's rights - the ratification of the ERA in 1979 in three more states. This will enable it to be incorporated into the Constitution of the United States.

The national fundraising effort launched by the League anticipates raising over one million dollars for ERA campaigns in Florida, Illinois, North Carolina and Oklahoma.

Input sought from parents

The Mystic Valley Council for Children is currently seeking input from parents, teenagers, and the people who work with them to aid in its effort to provide supportive services for teenagers in crisis.

From the fall of 1976 through the spring of 1977 the board of directors of the Council worked to document the need for services to adolescents. Through this research, and through their Help For Children program, they discovered that many teenagers living in Wilmington, Burlington, Lexington, Arlington, Winchester and Woburn had problems that needed to be cared for.

All too often, they discovered, these problems were ignored. The Mystic Valley Council has resolved to engage in program development activities that will improve the situation. In order to do so, it needs two basic things: one, ideas that will help them to understand adolescent needs and plan programs around them; and two, real concrete participation in Council activities that will lead to the development of new programs.

The need is there. To become involved call 729-4350.

Bits & Pieces

Carnival Sept. 3

A Carnival against Muscular Dystrophy will be held again this year in the Biggar Ave., area on Saturday, Sept. 3 from 12 to 5 p.m. Biggar Ave. is part of the Corum Meadows development (off Salem St.).

Among the highlights of the event will be games, prizes and refreshments. Public invited.

Women's Lib 56 years ago

A story in the Town Crier on August 17 told about the purchase of the first motor vehicle for the Wilmington Fire Department - the "Ford" of fond memory. There have been comments from some of the ladies that, although there were 140 voters at that town meeting they were all men.

Possibly the ladies are correct, but there were activities in which the ladies took part, including, of course, the preparation of a luncheon for the voters, in the basement of the Congregational Church.

fifty-six years ago Lucy Woodside - her husband was the town druggist, and an uncle, it is believed, to Mel Woodside, present day druggist - was named by the Moderator, Ed Nelson Eames, to a committee which was considering the threat of the discontinuance of the street car service between Hudson's Corner and Perry's Corner. Hudson's Corner was the present Wilmington Square, and Perry's Corner was the crossroad of Woburn Street and Lowell Street.

The committee was unable to persuade the owners of the line, which ran on Church Street and Wildwood Street, to continue.

In that same year there were two, and two only, candidates for the School Committee - Ellen S. Perry and Roseanna T. Manning were the candidates for the School Committee. Ellen was elected with 449 votes and Roseanna got 306.

Ellen's husband was Charles F. Perry, selectman and high school janitor. Among her other attributes was an ability to bake a famous apple pie - famous at least to Wilmington people.

Roseanna's husband was A. Chandler Manning, who built the big house on Glen Road where the Bliss family now lives. Roseanna was a niece of the Town Clerk, Jimmy Kelly, and a very gentle person of extreme rectitude.

Following this past summer's recreation action can become quite hectic. The camera did manage to catch some of the past season's highlights. Beginning from top to bottom - Tina Enrico and Kimberly Holman engaged in a Tiny Tot tug of war; Tewksbury-Wilmington Elks' Superstars Olympics had the

The opening of Wilmington's playgrounds July 5 officially signaled the start of Recreation Department fun in the sun for over 2000 youngsters.

Wilmington's kids had no complaints when the summer season ended August 19. While July 5 marked the start - the 19th spelled the end of the summer Rec romp. It's back to school and time for Recreation Director Ron Swasey to plot the fall and winter programs.

This summer the Rec had something to offer everyone as tots, pre-teens, teens, and adults had local activities during the week.

The playgrounds were located at the North Intermediate, Shawheen, Woburn Street, Swain, Glen Road, Wildwood and Boutwell schools. Playground leaders with some experience in athletics were always present to lend the youngsters the helping hand when it was needed.

The program was not without its field trips and special events that have become summer fixtures in the town. The Police Association helped sponsor a soap box derby and beach day that are popular summer events. The K of C-Rec track meet got the legs and arms limbered up while the Tewksbury-Wilmington Elks turned in a solid day's work with the Superstars Olympics. Two of the town's more rewarding programs were the Tiny Tots and Camp 40 Acres.

Wilmington's Rec program has operated with a full time director for eight years.

Swasey has been at the helm for six of those eight Rec years. We may soon be without the summer sun, but don't fret - cause Swasey and his Rec gang simply pack up the warm weather gear and prep for the fall season.

Football, soccer volunteers

The Wilmington Recreation Department needs adult volunteers for boys and girls flag football and soccer.

These intramural leagues will be for local boys and girls ages nine to 12 or grades four to six.

Flag football games will be played at the Town Park on weekends while the soccer games will utilize the Shawheen field.

Those interested should contact Ron Swasey at 658-4512 daily.

Ballroom dance classes Sept. 12

The Wilmington Recreation Department's popular Ballroom Dance Program for adults will start on September 12.

The program will run for 10 weeks on Monday evenings in the North Intermediate School cafeteria with each class being one hour in length.

Beginners will meet at 7 p.m.; intermediate at 8 p.m. and advanced at 9 p.m.

Cost is $15 per Wilmington and $25 for out-of-town couples with local couples given priority.
